

GIS Workshop for Teachers

Wed March 2, 2011, 10:15 to 11:45 and 1pm to 2:20

Horizon Convention Center, 401 S High Street

Muncie, Indiana

Workshop free to Educators

The Indiana Geographic Information Council is hosting the 2011 Conference in Muncie, Indiana, March 1 & 2, 2011. GIS (Geographic Information Systems/Science) professionals from around the state will be participating.

IGIC is sponsoring a free workshop to any pre-service or in-service educator. To anticipate quantity of student materials, registration is required.

Workshop Topics to be Covered:

- Presentation of classroom activities for elementary, middle and high school
- Hands-on technology demonstrations
- Discussion of GIS education materials (software, websites, books and more)

To Register: (IGIC Conference Information):

- Register for full GIS conference
- Register for workshop only (no charge)
- Lunch is on your own
- Materials will be sent to registrants

Resource partners:

Geography Educators Network of Indiana

ESRI—GIS Day

Ball State University Libraries

Activities for elementary—(Where Did It Come From and Where Did It Go?), for middle school (Analyzing Changes in our Environment) and for high school (Jobs that Use GIS). Lesson plans for many activities available through GENI.

University Libraries
A destination for research, learning, and friends

For more information contact Layne Young layne.young@indy.gov

317-327-7079